

Register Today for the Large Dairy Herd Management Conference: An ADSA® Foundation Conference

The ADSA Foundation invites you to register now for the upcoming Large Dairy Herd Management (LDHM) Conference scheduled for May 1-4, 2016, at the Oak Brook Hills Resort in Oak Brook, Illinois. Click here for complete conference and registration information.

Each of the 96 chapters within the 15 e-book sections will be presented over 2½ days on a wide array of topics pertaining to the management of large dairy herds. Participants will have the opportunity to attend the sessions of most interest to them, and to provide feedback to presenters, who are developing these topics as chapters for the Large Dairy Herd Management third edition e-book.

Dairy experts from around the world have been selected to prepare and present chapter papers for this comprehensive and essential resource. This landmark project is being led by Dave Beede, C. E. Meadows Endowed Chair of Dairy Management and Nutrition, Department of Animal Science at Michigan State University. Publication of the e-book is anticipated in early 2017.

Please contact Larry Miller for conference and e-book sponsorship opportunities.

Complete registration and conference information, including the list of topics and authors/presenters, is posted on the LDHM website:
